Hockey star to join Dinos?

► Hayley Wickenheiser, who lives in Calgary, helped Team Canada win gold during the Vancouver Games
► U of C team is coached by former teammate

With the University of Calgary women's hockey team expected to make a big announcement today, students are excited at the possibility of an Olympian joining the Dinos.

Hayley Wickenheiser, captain of the Olympic women's hockey team and Canada's all-time leading scorer, has enrolled in classes at the university, according to a source.

The Dinos have scheduled a news conference for today and it's expected they will announce the addition of a player from the Olympic gold-medal team.

"I think that's really exciting and I think that it will probably, definitely, help their fan base," said U of C student and Dinos fan Vanessa Vegter.

"I think any increase in fan base is a really positive contribution to any sport."

Vegter, in her fourth year, said she's noticed the number of fans at women's hockey games is limited.

"Personally, I find that women's sports at this school aren't recognized and not advertised at the same level, and (Wickenheiser) might actually help them."

The women's team is also coached by Wickenheiser's former Canadian teammate Danielle Goyette.

Wickenheiser has played for the Oval X-Treme club team in Calgary between Olympic Games, but that team is no longer operating in the Western Women's Hockey League.

She has also played men's pro hockey in Europe.

Members of the Dinos women's hockey team were unable to comment about the report yesterday.

Waiting continues for evacuees

Apartment evacuees may not be allowed back into their homes for up to another week, according to officials, who say the repair process needs to be meticulous.

While more than 300 residents are still left without a home after a surging transformer caused electrical fires all over Mayfair Place Sunday, Enmax and the building operators are covering their incidentals, housing and food costs.

"We're quite confident in the steps they've taken to ensure they have lodging food and any personal needs met right now," said Greg Solecki, acting deputy chief of the Calgary Emergency Management.

He adds the city has deactivated the Municipal Emergency Plan.

"The building contractors are doing everything humanly possible to get in there and make sure the building is safe for them to return there."

Scott MacDonald, vice-president of Enmax, believes they are still looking at a "three to 10-day time frame" and in the meantime will give $3,000 to each residency for items lost.

"The technicians are saying it's like peeling back the layers of an onion," he said.

Enmax has no damage estimates yet.

Police find missing camper's pickup truck

Searchers have located a missing 20-year-old Airdrie man's truck but still have found no signs of him since he disappeared while camping last week.

Parks Canada officials located the truck parked at Pinto Lake near the border of Banff and Jasper national parks, and authorities say his mom Darlene is relieved.

"She said she felt as though a weight has been lifted off her shoulders," said RCMP Const. Robert Frizzell. "She's very relieved, excited and hopeful. She feels better."

"From an investigator's standpoint, this is a very positive step in the right direction."

10 The number of days Jordan Darda has been missing since he went camping alone near Jasper.

Officers from RCMP detachments in Jasper, Lake Louise, Banff and Rocky Mountain House, along with Parks Canada employees, are searching for Darda from the air and ground.

"We have a lot of people out there looking for him and covering a lot of ground," Frizzell said.

Darda was supposed to be starting his fourth year in the University of Alberta's engineering program. In his last text message sent Sept. 5, Darda told friends it was too dark to set up his tent and that he planned to sleep in his truck.

A look at council's past and future

► Big decisions were made in old city hall and big decisions are left to be made for Calgary's 100th city council.

Hodges talks on 27 years

After nearly 27 years on city council, Ward 1 Ald. Dale Hodges has seen many items come before council.

"I never think in terms of the single most important issue because there's a number of important issues depending on ones perspective," said Hodges.

Hodges said some of council's most prominent accomplishments over the years have been the LRT extension and instating a recycling program.

KATIE TURNER

History

Calgary's first mayor was George Murdoch, who worked as a harness maker, according to information provided by the city.

- Title The title councillor was replaced by the term alderman in 1894.
- City On Jan. 1, 1894, the Town of Calgary became the City of Calgary.
- Women The first woman elected to council was Hannah Elizabeth Rolinson Gale in December 1917.

with Bronconnier at the helm has sort of been in some ways, they're a bricks-and-mortar kind of council, they've always been about building, about expanding," said Foster.

"In many ways, I think the most pressing thing for this city now is how to define itself and how to manage its growth."

Foster said he believes Calgary has yet to establish an identity, adding that it has a small-town feel but is expanding at a rapid rate.

"In some ways, the city sort of lacks a focus and a political culture beyond the white hat (and) Stampede," he said.

MAYORAL RACE

Get behind Plan It: Candidate

Mayoral candidate Bob Hawkesworth is challenging the leading mayoral candidates to show their support for Plan It, but at least one candidate said he already does.

"Plan It and Plan It-Plus are based on sustainable principles that emphasize greater urban density as part of future development, building Calgary up instead of out," Hawkesworth said.

Ward 12 alderman and mayoral candidate Ric McIver said he has long supported the 11 city's sustainability principles for sustainable development.

"I have already supported it and I will continue to do so," he said, adding he believes Hawkesworth is looking for support.

Hawkesworth called on McIver and fellow candidate Barb Higgins specifically, who also says she supports the city's Plan It initiative.

Moving their knees so their patients can too

► Around 100 staff from Rockyview General Hospital took part in run ► Last year, nearly $12,000 was raised

KATIE TURNER

► Runners readying for the Rockyview Hospital run.

Though the staff members at the Rockyview General Hospital were all racing against one another, camaraderie was a definite theme at this year's fundraising event.

Participants in the second annual Run for Rockyview walked and ran five kilometres along the Glenmore Reservoir yesterday to raise money for their respective units.

"A lot of the time when we have the big fundraising projects, it's for the hospital in general or for a major project," said Denise

Kinghorn of the Calgary Health Trust. "This is nice because every dollar they raise goes back to their own individual units."

Kinghorn said along with raising money for their units, the event creates a little bit of healthy competition amongst staff.

The winning hospital team in this year's fundraising was unit 81, which specializes in orthopedics.

Unit manager Steven Zack said his team raised over $5,000 — and they already have the money earmarked.

"We would like to buy what's called a continuous passive motion machine, it helps post-op knee patients keep their knees moving," he said.

In total, around $13,000 was raised to go towards various units.

Students staying active in school

- Schools following government's 2005 guidelines
- 80% of schools had daily physical activity programs

According to a University of Calgary study, 30 minutes of physical activity a day does keep the doctor away.

"Across Canada and across Alberta, childhood obesity rates are rising," said Dr. Christine Kennedy, a pediatrician in emergency medicine at the U of C.

In September 2005, the provincial government released guidelines requiring students in grades 1 to 9 to perform at least 30 minutes of activity a day while at school.

After interviewing students in grades 1 to 6 at 55 of the city's public and private schools in 2007, Kennedy found that the schools were 100 per cent successful in implementing some form of exercise.

"It shows that schools can play a really important role in promoting physical activity in children and youth," said Deborah Dewey, PhD, a professor in the department of pediatrics and community health sciences.

"I think schools are partners with parents. Schools play an important role in kids' lives, but I think parents and schools really have to work together," she said.

Cops, women's groups vouch for gun registry

- List provides vital data: Halifax police chief
- Index saves lives, despite drawbacks: RCMP report

A coalition of women's groups, police chiefs and emergency room staff in Nova Scotia is urging Ottawa to maintain the long-gun registry, arguing the program is critical to fighting domestic violence.

Members of two women's crisis groups, Halifax's police chief and the provincial nurses' union said yesterday the federal government would do away with a valuable source of data and hamper investigations if it scraps the registry.

Pamela Harrison, executive director of the Transition House Association of Nova Scotia, said her groups use the program routinely to find out what weapons are in a home where spousal abuse is suspected.

"It's extraordinarily important in terms of preventing women's death," she said at a news conference in Halifax.

The British Columbia Association of Chiefs of Police also voiced its support yesterday, saying federal politicians should be discussing public safety.

"We need to have a conversation about firearms-related violence in this country and gang-related violence," association president Clayton Pecknold, deputy chief of police for Saanich, B.C., told a news conference in Vancouver.

"This registry is one tool in a comprehensive approach to dealing with this. So let's not move backwards; let's move forward."

Tropical storm Karl is expected to quickly weaken into a tropical depression as it slogs across the flat peninsula of southern Mexico before heading back out over the Gulf of Mexico, where it could turn into a hurricane by the end of the week and threaten the central Mexican coast.

Talks fail to yield agreement

A mortar attack by Palestinian militants and air strikes by Israel formed the grim backdrop as Mideast leaders ended their latest round of peace talks yesterday, still divided on major issues. There was no word on when they would meet again.

The inconclusive U.S.-brokered talks between Israeli Prime Minister

Benjamin Netanyahu and Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas left in doubt the prospects for their new effort to end generations of hostilities in the region and create a sovereign Palestine alongside a secure Israel.

George Mitchell, the U.S. envoy for Mideast peace efforts, emerged from an evening session to say the talks had been encouraging but had fallen short of agreement.

Abbas and Netanyahu met with U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton for about two hours at the Israeli leader's official residence in Jerusalem and agreed to continue the search for a peace deal, he said.

Fake. Pot

► A bag of K2 synthetic marijuana.

KELLEY MC CALL/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Banning fake weed goes to pot

Authorities in 13 U.S. states thought they were acting to curb a public health threat when they outlawed a form of synthetic marijuana known as K2: A concoction of dried herbs sprayed with chemicals. But even before the laws took effect, many stores that did a brisk business in fake pot had gotten around the laws by making slight changes to K2's chemical formula, creating knockoffs with names such as "K3," "Heaven Scent" and "Syn."

RCMP seizes 7 tonnes of hash

The Mounties seized a container packed with enough hashish to intoxicate the entire country.

Police in Montreal discovered seven tonnes of hashish — or about seven million grams. The dark, laptop-sized hash bricks were discovered in an abandoned trailer Sunday in the city's west end. "It's a big one," RCMP spokesman Cpl. Luc Thibault said yesterday of the seizure.

Police have not made any arrests, but say they are investigating and hope to get leads from the public.

The seizure is estimated to be worth $70 million.

Most Canadians fear online crimes: Survey

► 99% of Canadians expect online fraud, identity theft

When it comes to cyber crime, almost all Canadians expect they will be victims but almost half think it's OK to "steal" movies and music online, a survey suggests.

"It is gloomy," said Lynn Hargrove, director of consumer solutions for Symantec Canada, an antivirus software maker that did a global study on cyber crime's human impact.

"It's almost all of us. I think they have more of a sense of online doom," Hargrove said of Canadians.

Despite the feeling of helplessness about cyber crime, almost 50 per cent of Canadians believed it was OK to "steal" music and movies from the Internet, the survey found.

Free does have a price, though.

"Obviously, cyber criminals are taking advantage of free," Hargrove said.

She noted that organized crime can put malware on content that is being downloaded for free, leaving people exposed to having their personal information silently stolen.

Other ethical questions found that 11 per cent of those surveyed thought it was OK to impersonate someone online and 12 per cent thought it was OK to browse someone else's files and email.

"There's still work to be done," Hargrove noted about online ethics.

Globally, the attitude toward being a victim of cyber crime isn't much better.

The study found that 97 per cent of those surveyed expected that a cyber crime would happen to them.

More than 7,000 people were surveyed recently in 14 countries including Canada, Australia, India, Brazil, the United States and China. THE CANADIAN PRESS

SMARTER PHONES

Psychic cellphones coming

How smart do you want your smart phone to actually be? Do you want it to read your mind, even a little bit?

Intel Corp.'s research chief, Justin Rattner, says that technology has advanced to the point that an idea of "context-aware computing" that's been around for two decades is becoming more of a reality with the rise of mobile devices.

That could lead to phones that act as psychics in your pocket. Rather than simply amass secrets about you, the devices could be doing things with that information, such as predicting what you might do next and offering suggestions. Tech companies already do this, but only in pieces.

A HEART THAT DEVISES WICKED PLOTS

He says ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE

I'd like to thank the greatest motivation in my life: The Seven Deadly Sins.

I owe them everything. If I ever need to give an acceptance speech, these Seven Deadly Life Coaches will be mentioned. (Well, maybe not sloth, but he wouldn't be there anyway.)

My allegiance to the sins isn't some hedonistic desire to break the rules. I'm a straight-laced guy who never crosses at a red light and who feels uncomfortable if an Axe commercial comes on in mixed company.

It's just that so-called negative emotions are better motivators than positive ones.

Altruism? Duty? Justice? Those do-gooders have always let me down.

But wrath, pride, envy, lust, and their close cousin, fear? They've been there for all my accomplishments.

The high school accounting class I got a 70 in was "easy," but the chemistry class I got a 96 in was "hard." I needed to be scared of failure before I would do the work, and knowing I could boast about it among the other nerds made it useful.

Meanwhile, anger pushed me into journalism when a girlfriend told me I'd never amount to anything, so I approached a newspaper with a spurned heart and a couple columns.

"Altruism? Duty? Justice? Those do-gooders have always let me down. But wrath, pride, envy, lust, and their close cousin, fear? They've been there for all my accomplishments."

My hiring was made doubly delicious when I next met the ex and saw she had expanded like an inflatable raft with its rip cord pulled. Any regrets I had were quickly tucked away in the folds of her neck.

See? Terrible, hateful. And where would I be without it?

Sure, I might be "happy." But I write about bad things that happen to me. Make me happy and I'm like a country singer whose wife and dog come back. I lose my powers.

I recently signed up for a half-marathon and at first felt like I was doing it for pure reasons. But I soon realized the truth is I want pats on the back.

I'm not ready for purer motivations yet, but maybe one day in the future I'll accomplish something simply because it's the right thing to do, free of any of the sins. I picture six of them pushing me along on my bicycle without the training wheels, and when I turn back I'll realize — gasp! — they're not holding the seat anymore.

When that moment comes, I'll be proud. No, wait.

A sweet breakthrough

Worth mentioning

Some sweet science news: Researchers have released a nearly complete map of the DNA of the tree that produces chocolate.

The project to map the cacao genome was funded by candy maker Mars Inc. It finished the sequence just two years into what was supposed to be a five-year project.

Mars, the maker of Snickers, M&Ms and other candies, says it hopes the results could someday lead to more robust, higher-yielding and drought- and disease-resistant trees.

An estimated three million tons of cocoa is produced globally every year, produced primarily by small farms.

Science of chocolate

But crop losses from pests and diseases costs an estimated $700 million to $800 million to farmers each year.

Unlike corn, wheat and rice, cocoa is often described as an "orphan crop" because it has been the subject of little agricultural research.

With this recent breakthrough, however, scientists say they have moved closer to ensuring the success of the crop, and so, too, the success of small farmers in some of the most climate-vulnerable places on the planet.

Mars will have spent $10 million on the project by the time it's complete.

Betty White looks back on her golden years

► More in demand than ever, the indomitable 88-year-old has no plans to slow down anytime soon

It was Sept. 14, 1985, when NBC introduced Bea Arthur, Betty White, Rue McClanahan and Estelle Getty as The Golden Girls.

A quarter century later, the show is still No. 1 among women who watch the Hallmark Channel, which begins and ends its broadcast day with an episode.

Betty White still sounds giddy when she talks about the show.

More popular than ever following her Saturday Night Live hosting gig in May, her hit show Hot in Cleveland on TV Land and a scene-stealing turn in the upcoming movie You Again, the 88-year-old White recently spoke about her never-ending career.

Is retirement a dirty word for you? Isn't that ridiculous? It is not a dirty word. I am just enjoying what I am doing. If they want me to retire, then stop asking me.

Did you know when you read the The Golden Girls pilot it was going to be so special? We all kind of did. You get a lot of scripts mailed to you and not too many of them are good, but when this one came along it just hit the spot and they sent it to each of us. They sent it to me with the idea of me doing Blanche. Jay Sandrich, who was our director for most of the Mary

Once the four of you started working together, did you know right away that you had great chemistry? The first table read was an experience. I had worked with Bea, I had done a couple of guest shots on Maude. I had worked with Rue on Mama's Family. Estelle was a new one to all of us. She came from New York after her hit. We all sat down for the first table read and somebody read a line and then somebody else read a line. You better be ready when you hit it over the net because you are going to get it right back over the net. It was the most exciting ... We all began to look at each other because there wasn't any first reading feeling about it. It was like we had been working together forever. I still get goose bumps thinking about it.

Looking back, what are you most proud of about the show? I send up a prayer of thanks for the writing. We can't do it without the writing. It has to be on the paper. No matter how much credit they try to take, actors can't do it unless it is on that page and boy was it on that page. To get that kind of writing is such a privilege.

Golden Girls really showed older women in a sexual light. Do you think older women are still allowed to be sexy in popular culture? I think we were just trying to tell it like it is. I think older women still have a full life. Maybe the writers don't address it these days, but it doesn't change the fact. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A step back in time

► Actor throws himself into gritty and complex role in new TV drama

Boardwalk Empire — HBO's wondrous new drama, which begins its 12-episode season Sunday — is set in 1920, the dawn of Prohibition.

Young Jimmy Darmody is just a month back from the Great War. He hates that the war made him "a murderer" and he nurses contempt for his former mentor, Enoch "Nucky" Thompson, who rules staying in Atlantic City, N.J., as the town's favours-granting, graft-collecting treasurer.

The series boasts a robust cast including Steve Buscemi (as Nucky), Gretchen Mol, Dabney Coleman, Kelly Macdonald and, in a breakout portrayal as Jimmy, Michael Pitt.

Here is a simmering, gum-chewing fellow in a newsboy's cap, ruthless yet sympathetic as he plots how to cut in on Nucky's outlaw liquor ring.

Pitt says he threw himself into the role, down to Jimmy's limp.

"I had a brace with a stick on the back of my knee," he reports. "So, from the moment I got on set in costume to the end of the day, I couldn't walk without a limp. Every day for seven months.

"I found myself staying in character a lot. Even when I wasn't shooting, I was still working."

Inevitably noted for his baby face, arresting blue eyes and pouty, pillow lips, the 29-year-old West Orange, N.J.-native seized on acting because, he says: "I liked the attention."

But he explains it evolved into a craft, which was a positive thing in his life. Pitt has tackled roles in more than a dozen varied, films that include the disturbing thriller Funny Games, The Dreamers, a pair of movies by Gus Van

MICHAEL Pitt, ACTOR

Sant and Hedwig.

Production wrapped in June, but the role of Jimmy and the era he inhabits "is still there. I'm still digesting it," says Pitt.

Like The Sopranos, this new series has dimension, unexpected twists and flashes of dark humour, plus startling eruptions of violence. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michaele Salahi, who gained notoriety with her husband by crashing a glitzy White House state dinner, says in a new book that she suffers from multiple sclerosis — a potentially debilitating disease.

Billed as a tell-all book written with the couple's co-operation, Cirque Du Salahi, by Diane Diamond offers little new information about the incident last year that sparked a high-profile government criminal investigation and made the couple minor celebrities after they arrived at the White House with a camera crew filming footage for the reality show that aired eight months later.

But they were not on any of the guest lists and did not receive the typical engraved invitation to the exclusive event. That the Salahis were able to get into the White House and so close to the president without being on a guest list prompted changes to security policies, the punishment of three Secret Service officers and a criminal investigation that hasn't yet led to charges.

Multiple sclerosis, Salahi says, explains her rail-thin physique. She rejects suggestions by others that she suffers from an eating disorder.

Salahi, 44, and a central figure on Bravo's reality show Real Housewives of D.C., was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis when she was 28, according to the book.

Her symptoms include tingling sensations and exhaustion, especially in stressful situations.

Plant shows he can do it without Krauss

Robert Plant

Album: Band of Joy

Label: Matador

Robert Plant could be making gazillions touring the world and shredding what's left of his aging vocal cords touring the world with Jimmy Page in a semi-bogus Led Zeppelin reunion.

The fact that he instead opted to make another roots record says everything about the integrity of one of rock's greatest voices. Critics wet themselves heaping praise onto Raising Sand, Plant's 2007 collaboration with Alison Krauss, and it took home a remarkable six Grammys.

Raising Sand was good, but Band of Joy is much better. This time Plant put his trust in alt-country guru Buddy Miller, who delivers a much brighter, truer sound for Plant. Together they mine traditional Honeydripper rock (I'm Falling in Love Again), southern gospel (Satan, Your Kingdom Must Down), Appalachian blues (Central Two O Nine) and Celtic fusion (Richard Thompson's House of Cards).

It may not be Zeppelin, but then again, nothing ever will be.

Outstanding track: Angel Dance • GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

Brandon Flowers

Album: Flamingo

Label: Universal

Killers' fans will be happy to know that frontman Brandon Flowers has only taken a break from the band, not its music. As a matter of fact, the thing that's striking about Flowers' solo debut is how much it sounds like a Killers' album. While it's pop-rock earnestness makes its sound easily accessible, the strength of Flamingo lies in Flowers' storytelling. He takes a Springsteenian examination of his Las Vegas home, finding beauty in Sin City's cynicism.

Outstanding track: Welcome to Fabulous Las Vegas • GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

Weezer

Album: Hurley

Label: Epitaph

If you thought Weezer would never write a good album again, you weren't alone. Their last few discs were huge disappointments — at least for fans of the Blue Album and Pinkerton.

Expectations were, understandably, low for Hurley, the band's eighth disc, but much to a lot of people's surprise the record is really good. It's somewhat of a return to the old days that sounds like it actually took more than two minutes to write.

Outstanding track: Ruling Me • BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI

Black Mountain

Album: Wilderness Heart

Label: Outside

Anyone who had Vancouver's Black Mountain simply pegged as classic rock-jamming stoners have plenty to learn with the band's third album. Wilderness Heart greatly expands the fivesome's scope to an array of new influences with a more concise package that includes placid folk, orchestral balladry and meatier metallic chugs. While the psychedelia and experimentation has diminished, more concentration on the harmonies of Stephen McBean and Amber Webber.

Outstanding track: Buried By The Blues • CAM LINDSAY

Linkin Park

Album: A Thousand Suns

Label: Warner

A lot has changed since Linkin Park became rap rock Gods a decade ago. Not only has their brand of music gone out of style, they've completely changed too. Their fifth disc is so bizarre it's difficult to know what they're doing. On some level it's more interesting than what they did years ago — they incorporate a variety sounds. They tried this with their 2007 disc too, but this time the album is just one huge mess. Outstanding track: Hang With Me • BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI

The rise of Lissie Maurus

► California singer touted as next big thing ► Debut album Catching a Tiger tipped to be huge success

Her hippy chic look and feel has been described as "a barefoot prairie girl transported to an L.A. canyon in 1972" and she is tipped to be huge in 2010.

She is a 27-year-old American called Lissie, and she is releasing her debut album Catching a Tiger.

"Where I grew up with my family we were the kind of people who walk up to strangers and tell them secrets. They give you a strange look and ask 'Why did you tell me that?, but it's just in our nature. I'm still pretty unknown, so I may have to be more careful in the future," she says.

"They give you a strange look and ask, 'Why did you tell me that?', but it's just in our nature. I'm still pretty unknown so I may have to be more careful in the future," she says.

Elisabeth "Lissie" Maurus grew up in Rock Island, Illinois, and as a nine-year-old starred as orphan Annie in the musical Annie for a run of 80 shows.

But in her teens Lissie ditched the theatre in favour of music, and specifically to learn the guitar.

She says she always believed she had a career in music. "I honestly did. It was what I always wanted," she says.

"But it's not only about talent. You have to be willing to work hard and be emotionally stable enough to be able to do it."

After a semester studying in Paris, France, Lissie moved to Los Angeles and got to know Bill Reynolds from Band of Horses. They made a five track-EP that got some attention, but the music industry is still pretty new to Lissie.

"I have still not had any bad experiences of the business," says the woman who claims if music hadn't worked out, she would have been a wildlife ranger.

"But I can tell if someone is dishonest or creepy and then I can choose not to work with that person."

And I'm not opposed to getting good ideas from other people." ■ METRO

Johnson: Free and wild

Jamey Johnson can do what he wants when he wants. The country maverick records his songs with buddies when and how the muse directs.

He's not constrained by labels or styles, and couldn't care less what critics think — or anyone else, for that matter.

While Nashville's mainstream music market is trending smaller — from singles to six packs to EPs — searching for more record sales in a market that continues to free fall, Johnson is putting out a double album, The Guitar Song, that includes 25 tracks and is more than two hours long.

He started recording the material for The Guitar Song in 2006. Johnson might be at his most honest on Baby Don't Cry, a lullaby to his daughter, Kylee, who's now 6.

► Jamey Johnson

"We are free. That's the whole point," Johnson says. "You're as free as you want to be. If you don't like your job, quit. Go do something you do like and figure out how to make money doing it."

His story resonates in Nashville, especially to a growing number of singer-songwriters who see him as a latter-day outlaw in the mould of Waylon and Willie, leading the way in uncertain times.

The Alabama native shrugs off the outlaw label deftly. "I've never done anything illegal. That's for the record," he says.

Designer showcases his photos

He's an uncontested master with a pen and sketchbook, on which he's been rattling off blockbuster ready-to-wear and haute couture collections for decades. But Chanel designer Karl Lagerfeld is also gifted with a camera.

A new Paris exhibition showcases the gamut of Lagerfeld's photography, from his commercial work for Chanel to celebrity portraits for magazines to more experimental landscapes and architectural pieces. The show — which kicked off Tuesday with a star-studded and Champagne-soaked opening at the Maison Européenne de la

Lagerfeld first took up photography in 1987, and the show, Parcours de travail, or Career Path, features sober landscapes as well as portraits soaked in eye-popping colours or printed on glitter-covered paper. There are, of course, the obligatory fashion photos. Lagerfeld, who designs for Chanel, Italian fashion house Fendi and his own signature line, has long shot the press kits for the labels, churning out photos of models sporting clothes from his collections.

From there, he branched out into ad campaigns for the lines. (He is behind Chanel's latest campaign featuring waifs sporting Chewbacca fake-fur skirt suits as they lounge on New York City fire escapes.)

► In the event of an emergency, seven people in the world have the power to shut down and reboot the Internet — no joke

It sounds like the plot from Bond movie — an international team of seven key figures who have the power to switch off the Internet.

Except this is real life and Anne-Marie Eklund Löwinder, head of quality and security at domain name foundation .SE, really does have that power over the world wide web.

She is one of seven people around the world entrusted with a secret code key which would allow her to close down and 'reboot' the Internet in the event of a disaster.

She spoke to Metro Sweden's Rickard Lindholm:

You are one of seven people who can "save the Internet" — how?

The international organization called ICANN started the project on the initiative of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

In the U.S. there are two operational centres, one on the East coast and one on the West coast where the code keys are updated four times a year and if the Internet was attacked three of the seven people who have access to the code key need to get to one of the operation centres to restore the system.

ANNE-MARIE EKLUND LOWINDER

Could someone actually sabotage the system?

If three of the seven with code key access couldn't get to the place to restore the system there are another seven back-up people.

If nobody manages to get there, if the U.S. for example closed its borders, ICANN can still drill open the safes and restore the system.

So, they've got it covered from all angles.

What would happen if the system wasn't updated for some reason?

Eventually the screens would go black, the code keys must be updated.

► Anne-Marie Eklund Löwinder is one of seven people who holds the key to the Internet.

What does DNSSEC mean?

DNS is a data base that translates domain names to IP addresses and that has worked fine for more than 20 years, but a couple of years ago a new way to attack this system pretty easily and quickly was discovered.

An attacked domain name can give you information from another source than is displayed.

With DNSSEC all information is authorized and it is certified that all information comes from the right source.

Bono bridges partisan gap

► Campaign fights poverty, AIDS

A bipartisan group of senior political hands is supporting an effort backed by U2 rocker Bono to talk with candidates about global AIDS and poverty.

Former Clinton White House chief of staff John Podesta and former Republican Sens. Norm Coleman and Rick Santorum signed onto the One Vote 2010 campaign. Former White House press secretaries

Mike McCurry and Dana Perino also are advising the issue advocacy push.

"This is not only the right thing to do in a humanitarian sense, it is also important to our own national security and future growth markets for American investment," said Coleman, a former Republican senator. "One Vote 2010 is key to helping voters and candidates understand how American leadership in these areas is not partisan and must be maintained."

The Washington-based campaign is working with staff and volunteers in New Hampshire, Illinois, Ohio, Florida and Indiana — all states with open Senate races.

The campaign, with Bono as its champion, worked in 2008 to talk with presidential candidates and elicit pledges they would work to fight global AIDS and poverty. The campaign says it had more than 1,000 one-on-one contacts.

Gaga undermined by senate vote after Ellen

A spokesman for Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid said Tuesday a vote to repeal the military's ban of openly gay and lesbian soldiers had been planned for next week before the singer made waves with a plea during a daytime talk show.

The pop star known for flashy performances and eccentric style called on Reid to repeal the military's "don't ask, don't tell" policy in an interview with Ellen DeGeneres that aired Monday.

Reid's campaign and Gaga traded talking points on Twitter after the legislator announced the vote. Reid told Gaga repealing the measure was the right thing to do.

Campaign spokesman Kelly Steele said Reid does not take cues from Gaga.

NYFW's Runway Roundup

► A look at some of the trends from New York Fashion Week ► Chiffon and '70s-inspired designs appear on catwalk, along with classic looks and sophisticated cuts

1 MARK BADGLEY AND JAMES MISCHKA

Review: The real inspiration for the collection that debuted at the Lincoln Center tents was the 1987 movie White Mischief starring Greta Scacchi, about a 1940s-era affluent woman visiting Kenya and finding romance and adventure. They delivered that with a pool-print chiffon top and a long, white georgette skirt dotted with white petals, a strapless sand-and-ivory organza gown with more petals and silver beads arranged like fans, and a romantic rose-and-silver gown that looked like a satin slip and a penoir on top.

2 DKNY

Review: The DKNY woman breezed onto the runway wrapped in the brand's new heritage-print scarf. The spring collection offered for 2011 borrowed from many classic wardrobe staples, including shirtdresses, ruffled blouses and trenchcoats. Karan's trim blazers and tapered trousers that she hoped would straddle precision and effortlessness, would work with anything.

3 MAX AZRIA

Review: Max Azria reminded the New York Fashion Week insiders — and hopefully some shoppers, too — that skin isn't always the key to sexiness. The spring 2011 clothes Azria previewed had a sensuality and sophistication that largely came from the ease of the silhouettes. So many of the dresses grazed the body and had such delicate straps that it was almost as if the models wrapped themselves in georgette or crepe sheets and were merely holding it all together with their fingertips.

4 NICOLE MILLER

Review: Miller went for an elegant layered look in her spring 2011 collection, with models walking the catwalk in thin fabrics in a subdued palette ranging from ivory to grey to black. An ivory jacket was worn over a long khaki silk georgette blouse and a satin chiffon dress. A pair of black shorts were cut just above the knee, giving them a very city-chic look. A chiffon dress had a prism print on it, while a jacket had cutout shoulders revealing the skin.

5 REBECCA TAYLOR

Review: Rebecca Taylor's head was in the '70s with mirror accents and pleated floral prints. A little bit Jerry Hall, a little bit Ali MacGraw, Taylor punched up some of her high-rise elastic waists with tulip and pom-pom designs and knife pleats, sticking mostly to neutral shades of grey, blush, sand and taupe. A canvas trench offered a splash of bright orange, along with a chiffon dot print in camisoles and midi-skirts in lively cherry.

American sportswear look of the 1970s coming back

► NY Fashion Week takes a trip back in time this year

Say what you will about disco, the 1970s were a good time for American fashion. And if it feels like decades whiplash, you may be right. Fall is the time for the '50s polished lady, and it wasn't so long ago that fashion was embracing the '80s.

But the '70s have been creeping forward, too. Wide-leg pants hitting stores for fall will go looser and easier for spring.

HALSTON

The city-loving night owl that has long defined the Halston customer probably doesn't get out into the garden much, so designer Marios Schwab gave her a few reminders of what it might be like out there: light, pretty, soft.

A black jersey dress, for example, had a gold snake-like halter top, and a two-tone, one-shoulder gown had a burnout effect in the beading.

All it took from a white, high-neck georgette dress to become a sexy number were split sleeves and a gold waistband, and an ivory-pink jersey dress was gathered at the bottom, as if the model had just tacked up a longer gown because she no longer wanted to be bothered by the fuss.

TRACY REESE

Tracy Reese likes her catwalk to be a happy place and she consistently turns out clothes that suit that mood.

For the spring collection that previewed Monday at Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week, she used a black halter maxi dress, a waves-and-orchid print peasant blouse and the poncho worn over a tie-neck blouse and Bermudas all channelled the relaxed style of a woman unconcerned about her BlackBerry or iPhone.

DIESEL BLACK GOLD

Flowing rock goddess dresses and tomboy suede jackets in neutral khaki, rich browns and camel were set against the sunny New York City skyline for the earthy Diesel Black Gold presentation.

Leaf motifs more suited to autumn popped up on tailored leather jackets with crosshatched seams, and in fringe overlay on short dresses and flowing longer versions topped with tight, edgy leather bodices anchored by braided straps. Diesel called the collection an ode to the West Coast.

Vera Wang courting Kill Bill

Vera Wang typically specializes in artful, romantic styles, which might give one pause to the reference in her newest collection to Quentin Tarantino's violent Kill Bill.

But Wang, in her explanation to editors, stylists and retailers in the audience of her New York Fashion Week show, said it was a "fusion of East meets West, with a mixture of boyish urban sophistication and romantic otherworldly sensuality."

Of course, Wang's dresses were the best offering on the runway, including a red silk-tulle gown with a high neck and hand-ruched draping over a bustier, and a grey jersey dress with twisted pleats and a sheer organza back drape.

In recent years, Wang's catwalk has become a bit of a petri dish with the designer not afraid to take risks for big payoffs. It makes for a more directional and influential collection.

Trends for fall and winter

► Vintage accents, wallpapers are among hot design choices this year

DECOR MOMENT

KARL LOHNE
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Although trends come and go, I see this fall's decor trends as a welcoming sign of casual comfort, high quality and a return to a better quality of life. It's like a well edited wardrobe; fewer pieces but all of remarkable quality and stability.

Vintage accents

French-burlap and linen is being utilized for chic pillows printed with a vintage stamped design and accent chairs are covered in humble grey linen fabric. Vintage replica lamps made of brass and milk glass are making a comeback as something new and fresh.

Wallpaper is back

Wallpaper is making a comeback in a big and decidedly fashionable way. From bright and bold to subdued and elegant, today's wallpapers are easy to apply and even easier to remove, making updating the seasonal look of a room easier than ever before.

Whatever Art

Art doesn't have to be expensive but it should certainly have meaning. Buy what you like and don't be afraid to mix oil, pastel, black-and-white photography; the more you mix the more travelled and cultured you will look. Vintage maps, old road signs, antique photography; it all goes as long as it has meaning!

Burst of Colour

While grey neutrals are still very popular this year for elements like paint colours and upholstered furnishings, coloured accent pieces give a space visual interest and appeal. Brightly coloured and/or patterned pillows, rugs and other accessories will bring an otherwise bland space to life.

Window Treatments

While many love luscious fabrics, an overuse of material on your windows can quickly overpower an otherwise streamlined room. Linen panels are now very trendy since they beautifully outline and soften windows. Silk has made its way back on windows.

Rug Rage

There has never been a more exciting time for rugs; whatever style, shape, and design you can imagine is available. Natural animal prints and ultra-bright fashion colours are the two big looks right now.

The grown-up touch to kid decor

Betsy Burnham loves designing bedrooms for young children. But before she can begin, she sometimes has to steer clients away from painfully cute design ideas.

"I don't like cutesy things — the murals, the Disney things," says Burnham, an interior designer based in Los Angeles.

"Why give them a really babyish room, when it's so expensive to change everything" as the kids grow older?

Many parents feel obligated to stick with colours and imagery commonly associated with little kids. "But when you do that," says designer Brian Patrick Flynn, founder of decordeamon.com, "you create a powder keg, because then you have to redecorate when they get bigger."

How do you create a space that is kid-friendly, but will also grow with your child and mesh with the rest of your home?

Flynn, Burnham and HGTV's latest Design Star winner, Emily Henderson, share their advice:

BREAK THE RULES

Forget the typical pastels and primary colours. Flynn loves vibrant oranges and greens for kids' bedrooms: "They're high energy, but totally gender-neutral."

White and brown are also a great combination, he says, because you can accessorize them with a range of other colours as the child's taste changes.

SKIP THE KIDDIE FURNITURE

Burnham says a dresser with a changing pad on top can be a functional and stylish alternative to a traditional changing table.

And rather than buying a prefab kids' table and chairs set, Henderson recommends hunting at flea markets for vintage school chairs and desks.

No need to buy a toddler bed: Your child doesn't need one.

"If you invest in a couple of really nice twin beds, or just one twin bed," Burnham says, you can probably turn that bed into a daybed once the child moves on to a full- or queen-size bed."

KEEP THE CHARACTERS IN THE TOYBOX

"Buy them a Buzz Lightyear toy," says Burnham, "but don't put Buzz Lightyear all over the walls."

Many kids' rooms these days look like advertisements for popular licensed characters. Nothing dates a room more than focusing it on one character — within a few years, your child will be into something new and you'll be stuck with the redecorating bill.

How To Buy A Home With Zero Down

www.easyzerodown.com

Calgary, AB A new home ownership program allows qualified buyers to buy a home with absolutely no down payment. You may have owned a home before and are presently renting, or maybe you are a first time homebuyer and need a way to break into the housing market but are holding back because you think you require $10,000, $20,000 or even more for a down payment.

Well regardless of your present situation, if you want to get into, or re-enter the housing market without having to make a cash down payment, this new program may be just what you're looking for. Why pay your landlord's mortgage when you can be building your own equity.

Industry insiders have prepared a new special report entitled, "How to Buy a Home With Zero Down" which reveals how this new and innovative program can get you into the housing market immediately and with no down payment.

Rush's luxe dining room is Calgary's most gorgeous place to lunch with precise food and impeccable service to match.

Slow roasted beets ($13) flirt with slivers of manchego cheese, flounce off wedges of tart grapefruit and rub against pine nuts in a bed of fresh greens.

The Spring Creek beef burger ($15) is cooked to order, stacked high with double smoked bacon and white cheddar, lettuce and tomato. Fries are decent but it's hard to compete with the juicy burger.

A nod to new executive chef Andrew Stevens' last position in the Maritimes, the lobster bisque and knuckle sandwich ($22) make me daydream about the humid breezes of those shores. Rush's riff on a traditional lobster roll omits

Lumsden headed to Stampeders?

► Hufnagel says club has had 'discussions' with Canadian RB

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers aren't the only Canadian Football League team interested in signing Jesse Lumsden.

After the Calgary Stampeders practised at McMahon Stadium yesterday morning, head coach and general manager John Hufnagel confirmed that he and his staff have had talks with the Canadian running back about his possible return to the CFL.

"I talked to Jesse at Henry Burris' golf tournament in May and (director of player personnel) John Murphy has continual talks with a lot of people throughout the league throughout the season," Hufnagel said. "There has been discussions."

Lumsden, a former first-round draft pick of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, hasn't played since injuring his shoulder in the first game of the 2009 season while with the Edmonton Eskimos. Edmonton cut him after last season and Lumsden hasn't played a CFL game since, although he did compete in bobsled at the 2010 Winter Olympics.

With Joffrey Reynolds firmly entrenched as Calgary's starting running back and Canadian Jon Cornish having a breakout season, Lumsden would first have to pay his dues in or-

CFL headlines

A look at some of the news from elsewhere in the league:

- EDMONTON Six weeks after star slotback Fred Stamps took a debilitating shot in the shoulder, he's back and ready to give the anemic Edmonton Eskimos' offence a shot in the arm.
- The 29-year-old Louisiana-born slotback was practising in pads yesterday and is expected to play Sunday against the 7-3 Montreal Alouettes (TSN, 4 p.m. ET).
- TORONTO Star kicker Justin Medlock is rejoining the Toronto Argonauts after signing a deal through the 2011 season with the Canadian Football League club yesterday.
- Medlock exercised the option year of his contract in February to join the NFL's Washington Redskins. He was also claimed and later released by the Detroit Lions. THE CANADIAN PRESS der to work his way onto the Stamps' talent-laden roster.

"When the practice roster opens up (on Oct. 6), maybe that's a possibility," said Hufnagel in regards to where Lumsden would fit in with the Stamps.

Homer, top prospect not enough for Jays

The Baltimore Orioles withstood Jose Bautista's major league-leading 47th home run and ruined the debut of right-hander Kyle Drabek with a 3-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays yesterday night.

Bautista's drive tied the Toronto club record set in 1987 by George Bell. It was his seventh of the season versus the Orioles, the most against any team, and second off O's pitcher Brad Bergesen (7-10).

Toronto has hit at least one home run in 17 consecutive games, the longest run in the AL this year and one short of the streak of 18 straight by Cincinnati from May 11-29.

Drabek, the son of former Cy Young winner Doug Drabek, pitched well enough to win. But Berge- sen was better.

Drabek (0-1), the Eastern League pitcher of the year, gave up three runs and nine hits in six innings in his major league debut. He struck out five and walked three.

His father was in attendance. Doug Drabek made his debut against the Orioles for the New York Yankees in June 1986.

♈ Aries March 21-April 20

There will be a change of emphasis in your affairs over the next few days. Work and well-being issues may be important to you now but relationships will soon replace them.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Get your head out of the clouds and start thinking along more practical lines. No matter how many things have come easy to you of late you will soon have to work harder for your rewards.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You have to admit that you could and should have done more to help someone in need, but there is no point making yourself feel bad. It is what you do next that matters. Do something that makes a difference.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22

No matter what challenges you face you will handle them with ease — all you have to do is stay calm and refuse to let your imagination run away with you.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 It may be that you don't have much room to manoeuvre at the moment but that may not be such a bad thing. The planets are forcing you in a particular direction for a very good reason — it's the best direction for you.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Slow down and focus on the issues that matter. You have an abundance of energy but don't waste it on things that are of no real importance.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

A week from today a new and more positive phase will begin. Before then, however, you must tie up loose ends at work and bring a personal dispute to an end.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Look closely at your life and you will discover that a route you thought had been closed for good is in fact still open to you. It's the route you are destined to take.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You will see through someone's attempts to mislead you and, not surprisingly, you will make a big noise about it. Quite right too. It would be nice if everyone was as honest as you.
